To whom it concerns,

My personal opinion is, I'm in prison and if I can learn a trade that could help me to avoid coming back to places like this it's a benifit. No, were not getting paid minimum wage or prevailing wages. However, there are some prisons that pay nothing at all.

I see it as a positive that I can learn & teach others to do something that could keep them out of prison or help them get ahead in life.

We have free room & board, free food free clothes & a "form" of medical system. So it balances out. Also we earn twice what other jobs make and I'm fairly sure you have to pay to learn a trade on the streets.

Could it be better? Yes, we could use extra monies. But its good as I can expect getting myself put in here.

I have personal expectations that I feel could be better, but those are my expectations. I'm in jail. Some things I have to just deal with.

All in All I think its a good program.
